Collection 43/Rev. 02/15/2017/KW/1

Records of the office of New Orleans architects Andry and Feitel (Paul Andry, 1868-1946; Arthur Feitel, 1891-1982) and predecessor offices as noted in following chronology.

- Andry and Bendernagel
(Albert J. Bendernagel, Sr., 1876-1952) 1900-1913
- Paul Andry 1913-1922
- Paul Andry, Arthur Feitel, Associates 1923-1925
- Andry and Feitel 1926-1972

Records include project drawings, some specifications, and a small amount of correspondence.

Paul Andry had a long and distinguished career as an architect in New Orleans, working initially with Benjamin Morgan Harrod (1837-1912, Harrod and Andry), then with Albert Bendernagel (Andry and Bendernagel). With Harrod, he designed the buildings of the first phase of construction of Tulane University. With Bendernagel, he was responsible for buildings of the second phase of construction of Tulane. Later, after several years on his own, Andry partnered with architect Arthur Feitel, with whom he was still working at the time of his death. Andry was succeeded as partner in the Andry and Feitel firm by his son, Charles G. Andry, who had been working in the firm for twenty years. Charles G. Andry was partnered with Arthur Feitel until his death in 1972.

PROVENANCE

Records were generated and preserved by Andry and Feitel and predecessor offices until Arthur Feitel closed the office in the mid-1970s. Flat files containing the drawings were acquired by Sanchez Auction Company of New Orleans. Sanchez sold the flat files to Dr. Latour, who did not want the drawings, but recognized their value. Dr. Latour then gave the records to Tulane University in 1977. Additional records were given by the Historic New Orleans Collection, which they had received from Feitel's widow, Mary Ory Feitel, in 1984. Drawings for the Ursuline Convent were given by the Ursuline Convent in the 1990s.
